The Autumn Has Come.

The autumnal equinox occurred last Thurday, the sun "crossing the line" at 5 o'clock on the evening of that day. And now we are in the midst of autumn—"the fall of the year"—concerning which the astronomical writer of the Providence Journal writes thus:

Of the four time marks in the earth's revolution around the sun, the autumnal equinox is to us far the more interesting, and we often wish to hold the earth back in her course and prolong this season of superlative beauty. But not a moment does she pause. Swayed by resistless forces she travels on her appointed path, and scattering far and wide the rich treasures she holds in her hands, speeds her way toward the short and gloomy days that usher in the reign of winter. Even the departing sun, the lessening daylight and the quick coming on of the shades of evening, with little intervening twilight, throw a glamor over the autumnal days, and surround him with a charm peculiarly their own. The crisp freshness of the mornings, the splendor of the sunny noons, the glory of the sunset clouds, the brilliancy of the starry nights, the bracing atmosphere, and the soft, golden haze that invests the landscape, are sources of enjoyment free as the air we breathe, and within the reach of all who wish to share in the gifts of bounteous nature.

Winter is the season for the sleep that vegetation needs, spring is the time for sowing the seed, summer is the laboratory for vivifying work, but autumn sits enthroned with the year's results scattered around her. The brilliant-hued flowers that grace her domain, the ripened fruits that lie heaped up among her treasures, the harvests that have been gathered from countless fields, and the sources of untold wealth won by hard labor from the soil, bear witness to the culmination of the season when the rest from toil and the enjoyment of its fruition may be indulged. A wise philosophy will make the most of autumn days as they pass, rejoice in the happy equilibrium of physical forces, and find them doubly precious for the evanescent grace and charm that throw a poetic halo around them.

The leading Scientists of to-day agree that most diseases are caused by disordered Kidneys or Liver. If, therefore, the Kidneys and Liver are kept in perfect order, perfect health will be the result. This truth has only been known a short time and for years people suffered great agony without being able to find relief. The discovery of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure marks a new era in the treatment of these troubles. Made from a simple tropical leaf of rare value, it contains just the elements necessary to nourish and invigorate both of these great organs and safely restore and keep them in order. It is a POSITIVE Remedy for all the diseases that cause pains in the lower part of the body—for Torpid Liver—Headaches—Jaundice—Dizziness—Gravel—Fever—Ague—Malarial Fever, and all difficulties of the Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs.

HAMSHER & MOSSER, Publishers

DECATUR, ILLINOIS.

FRIDAY EVENING, SEPT. 30, 1881.

THE small-pox is raging at Pittsburg and Allegheny.

IT has been suggested that one of the large parks in Chicago be called Garfield park.

AT the reunion of ex-Confederates on Wednesday, at Moberly, Mo., two thousand veterans of the lost cause appeared in the line.

IN the argument before Judge Drummond, in Chicago, on Wednesday last, on the application for the appointment of a new receiver for the Ohio and Mississippi railroad, ex-Gov. Palmer, of Illinois, ex-Gov. Hendricks, of Indiana, and Senator Ben. Harrison appeared as counsel.

THE oldest pensioner of the United States is said to be Mrs. Elizabeth Cretzer, who lives in Baltimore county, Maryland. She was 103 years old last December, and is the widow of John Cretzer, who served in the Maryland militia in the war of 1812. She was married in 1801, and is still bright and cheerful. Her sight and hearing are good, and her mental faculties in excellent preservation.

SECRETARY BLAINE is in Maine, Secretary Kirkwood in Ohio, Secretary Hunt is off on a tour of observation among the naval stations, Secretaries Windom and Lincoln are in New York, as is also Postmaster General James, and Attorney General MacVeagh is left to hold the fort at Washington alone, the President himself having gone to New York to remain four or five days. The country may therefore rest secure in the expectation that no cabinet changes will be made for a few days, and the nervously inclined can compose themselves until next week anyhow.

IN speculating upon cabinet possibilities some shrewd guessers have advanced the theory that Blaine stands a better chance of being retained by President Arthur than either Windom or Kirkwood, because of the fact that both of the latter voted, while in the Senate, for Arthur's removal from the New York collectorship, while Blaine steadfastly opposed making the change that Hayes and Sherman had set their hearts upon. This is the human nature view of the case, and it is always safe to presume that presidents are as closely related to Adam as the rest of us.

THE feeling of the public for Guiteau seems to be changing from that of revenge to abject loathing. No living being was ever so thoroughly despised by so many people. If there is a man or woman on earth who would call him a friend they have not made it known. They want him to have a fair trial, but they will look on satisfied when he is kicking in the air.

"MR. ARTHUR is a man of ability, of experience, and of tact, and it is not probable that he will, even if he could, commit any act that might disturb the present prosperity of the country. The change may affect individuals in the Republican party and their personal interests, but not the business of the country."—Samuel J. Tilden.

THE Rev. William Arthur, father of the President, was remarkable for his readiness in debate. Some years ago, at a meeting of the old Hudson River Baptist association, the Rev. Mr. Walden, who had been settled in the west, but had recently taken a church at Troy, said: "I can tell brethren that if they think any sort of ministers will do for the west, they are mistaken; it won't do to send our third rate men there." Rev. Mr. Arthur was on his feet in a moment, exclaiming: "Mr. Moderator, I never knew before why Brother Walden came back."

MR. WILLIAM HENRY SMITH, of Chicago, who enjoyed unusual opportunities for knowing the inside workings of the Garfield administration, now comes forward and announces that if the late President had recovered he would have made some changes in his cabinet after Jan. 1, next. If that is the case, and President Arthur should deem it expedient to make any changes, not even the most venomous of his critics could complain.—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

PRESIDENT GARFIELD, soon after he was shot, was told of the extraordinary manifestations of sympathy which were pouring in from all parts of the world. "That can't last," said he. "The world is too large for one man to hold its attention for any length of time." Yet he held it for three months, and when he was borne to his grave Monday the whole world joined in the solemn service. After such a demonstration, no man can again say that the world is selfish and that there is no such thing as genuine human sympathy.

Big Interest on a Small Note.

From the San Francisco Examiner, Sept. 16.

A very singular case was tried before Justice Gilson yesterday, involving the legality of $7,335 interest on a $30 note issued on the 3d of September, 1877. According to the testimony of H. C. Firebaugh, he advanced $29 to J. J. Perkins on his promissory note on the above date, the latter contracting to redeem the note at some future day, paying therefor $30 for the principal, and interest at the rate of $5 per day until payment was made. Mr. Firebaugh claims to have hesitated before advancing the money on such a preposterous proposition, but Perkins assured him that within twenty-four hours he could make $500 out of the small sum, so the money was advanced him on his own terms. The defendant admitted that he had received the money from the plaintiff on the above terms, but set up as a defense that the interest specified in the note was "extortionate, unreasonable, unjust, against public policy, and illegal." Mr. Firebaugh then sprung Section 1,918 of the Civil Code upon the amazed defendant, wherein it was specified that parties might agree to the payment of any rate of interest, which should be allowed according to the terms of the agreement, until the entry of judgment. The court reserved a decision of the case until to day.

Marvelous Progress.

From the London Pall Mall Gazette

Statesmen and economists ought to follow with great attention the marvelous phenomenon of the economical progress of the United States. It must have no slight influence for good or for evil on Europe. According to Poor's Railroad Manual, just issued, last year (1880) the states have laid down 7,174 miles of rail; so they should complete a railroad network like that of France in less than two years and a half. Their exports increased from $442,820,178 in 1871 to $902,319,473 in 1880-81. The excess of imports of specie amounted during the year ended July 30, 1880, to $75,891, and during the year ended July 30, 1881, to $91,168,650, a sum equivalent to the total production of gold in the world. If our continent should be in the form of the United States of Europe, without army and navy, and should be rapidly diminishing its debt, like the states of America, we could more easily compete with them. But only Socialists seem to be able to entertain such a dream.

A Touching Incident.

A correspondent who witnessed the departure of the late President's mother from Solon for Cleveland says: The most touching incident since the great tragedy occurred this morning. As Grandma Garfield was packing her little bag, previous to her departure, the clasp refused to yield to her trembling touch. Involuntarily she exclaimed: "James, I can't unfasten my satchel!" Then the awful truth dawned upon her afresh, made more cruel by the involuntary exclamation. "What did I say?" she gasped, looking quickly about her to see if her utterance had been heard. Mrs. Larrabee turned her head the other way as if she had been pierced by an arrow. Mrs. Garfield stood trembling with uncontrollable agitation, her breast heaving with emotion she would fain express, and her eyes brimming with tears. "Mr. Palmer," she said at length, controlling herself by a mighty effort, "you are the only James I have now. Will you unfasten it?" The incident is especially touching, showing as it does the dependence of the mother and the customary courtesy of the son.

THE accession of President Arthur could involve no change in the financial policy of the government, even supposing the President to have fuller power than he has. His views were known to be in accord with those already entertained by the administration. His home and associations were in the most intelligent of financial centres. There is not a financier of any note in the country who has not entire confidence in him. The administration of the treasury department was good before he became President, and will continue so—in the mercy of congress. There is scarcely any single thing in the public administration that was less likely to undergo a change on account of the death of the late President than the conduct of the finances. That full confidence is entertained in the present situation is indicated by the general firmness of the markets.—Globe-Democrat.

What Congress Did for Mrs. Lincoln.

From the Washington Star, September 24.

It is a matter of discussion at this time what Congress will do for Mrs. Garfield. In this connection the acts passed in relation to Mrs. Mary Lincoln are of interest. There were three acts of the kind passed by Congress. The first act passed when Congress came together after the assassination of President Lincoln, was as follows: "That the Secretary of the Treasury pay, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, to Mrs. Mary Lincoln, widow of Abraham Lincoln, late President of the United States, or in the event of her death before payment to the lawful heirs, the sum of $25,000; provided always that any sum of money which shall have been paid to the personal representatives of the said Abraham Lincoln since his death on account of his salary as President of the United States for the current year shall be deducted from the said sum of $25,000."

The amount thus granted Mrs. Lincoln was the salary of the President for one year. Now that salary is $50,000. In February, 1866, Congress passed the following act: "That all letters and packets carried by post to and from Mary Lincoln, widow of the late Abraham Lincoln, be carried free of postage during her natural life." In 1870 the following act was passed: "That the Secretary of the Interior be and is hereby authorized to place the name of Mary Lincoln, widow of Abraham Lincoln, deceased, late President of the United States, on the pension roll, and allow and pay her a pension at the rate of $3,000 per annum, from and after the passage of this act."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Senator Mahone has written to friends here that he will find it very inconvenient to attend the special session of the senate, and will not be able to remain more than a day or two. Epps Hunton and other Democratic politicians are of the opinion that he will not be present at the opening of the senate, because it would be a serious source of embarrassment to him to vote either for a Democratic organization or a Republican.

President Arthur left the city for New York at 2 p. m., to remain until Monday.

By order of the secretary of war, one company of the Tenth United States infantry will leave Fort Wayne, Michigan, for Cleveland, O., where it will go into camp near the cemetery, and furnish a guard for the tomb of General Garfield, to remain until the body is placed in a permanent position.

Secretaries Hunt and Lincoln left the city at 2 p. m. for New York. Mr. Hunt is to make an inspection of the navy yards, and Mr. Lincoln takes his wife to Rye Beach, where his children have been all summer. Neither will return until October 8.

Secretary Windom leaves to-morrow for Newton, Mass., to remain a week.

The opinion grows that all the cabinet, except MacVeagh, will remain until the meeting of congress in December.

The statement telegraphed from Utica that J. C. Reed, private secretary of the president, accompanied Senator Jones on his visit to ex-Senator Conkling, is untrue. Mr. Reed is here.

The resignation of First Lieutenant F. D. Grant, of the Fourth cavalry, has been accepted by the President.

Jealousy.

Some poet has said that "All torments of the damned we find in only thee, Oh Jealousy, thy tyrant of the mind." This is grandly sweeping and magnificently inaccurate. Any sufferer from Indigestion knows to the contrary. Indigestion, he villian of the tragedy played among the gastric juices of the stomach can, and does double discount the horrors of jealousy. Jealousy is often an attendant upon the latter, and when indigestion is removed this jaundiced companion of a deranged liver flies. TARAXINE is the best known remedy extant for impaired digestion, deranged liver, and diseases of the bowels and kidneys.

DISMAY,

Is the Word that Tells the Feelings of the Star Route Ring.

They Find Themselves Being Pushed to the Wall.

The Garfields at Home.

WASHINGTON, D. C., September 29.—The star-route ring is demoralized. They feel that lightning is about to strike them, but they don't know just how or where it will hit. Postmaster General James and Attorney General MacVeagh have got evidence enough, they are satisfied, to convict the ring, and there is to be no delay in the prosecution. This morning there was a conference at the Arlington. There were present Postmaster General James, Attorney General MacVeagh, ex-District Attorney George Bliss, B. H. Brewster and others, who represent the prosecution. Bliss submitted indictments which he had carefully drawn against Gen. Brady, Dorsey, ex-Auditor McGrew, ex Chief Clerk French, Saulsbury, Gilmer, and other star-route contractors and beneficiaries of the ring. Bliss stated that, after a thorough examination of all the evidence, he had drawn these indictments with great care, and would pledge his professional reputation upon conviction. James and MacVeagh approved the action of Bliss. The prompt and determined stand of President Arthur in favor of vigorous and rigorous prosecution has demoralized and dismayed the ring-leaders; who had kept the weak ones of the crowd silent by assuring them that if Arthur became President the whole matter would be at once quashed. As soon as it was proper after the death of President Garfield, Postmaster General James and Attorney General MacVeagh had an interview with the President about the star-route matter. The President had already declined for the time being to accept the resignations of the Cabinet, and had requested them to continue in the discharge of their duties just as they would have done if President Garfield had survived.

President Arthur assured James and MacVeagh that there must be no mistake as to the purpose toward all persons who had been guilty of fraud toward the Government, and that if there had been a star-route ring, and the Government had been defrauded, he wanted the guilty parties punished. Gen. James informed the President that he was satisfied of the frauds, and if he was to remain, even temporarily, at the head of the Post Office Department he would insist on having the support and assistance in the exposure of wrong-doing to which he felt entitled; that the President knew he did not desire to embarrass him for one moment by remaining in his Cabinet any longer than the President preferred, but so long as he retained his position he was determined to perform the duties of his place in the interest of the people. President Arthur assured Gen. James that his earnest desire was for him to remain where he was, and to conduct the department as he had done since he took charge of it, adding that the whole country had applauded his (James') administration. It was not long until the star-route ring ascertained that President Arthur could not be deceived into giving them any countenance, and this seemed to be their last hope. One of the highest officials of the postoffice department informed a western associated press agent to-day that in the past thirty-six hours several persons connected with the ring had surrendered and turned state's evidence.

The action of President Arthur in removing Starr, the postmaster at Deadwood, was a revelation to the ring. The star-route ring did not know that Starr had made a written confession, detailing all the fraudulent operations of the ring in the northwest. In some months past one of the most efficient inspectors of the postoffice department has been secretly investigating the management of the Deadwood postoffice, and when he confronted the postmaster with his proofs the latter confessed. The President's prompt removal of Starr indicated to the ring that they could not expect any mercy from him, and the result was the immediate tender of other confessions, which makes the chain of evidence complete. Not only in regard to the star route, but as to all other matters connected with the management of the Post Office Department, the President is fully in accord with James, and it is said by those in a position to know that James will remain at the head of the Department. If he does then First Assistant Postmaster General Tyner will have to go, and that very soon. Tyner has never been in sympathy with James' administration of the department, and he has belittled the star route prosecutions from the first and predicted that they would end in smoke. It is asserted that had not President Garfield been shot Tyner would long ago have been removed. It is very certain that James will not permit him to remain in the department if he continues at its head.

PITTSBURG, PA., September 29.—Colonel Rockwell, Major Swaim and Major Clapp, friends of the late President Garfield, arrived in this city from Cleveland last night, and, missing connections, remained over until this morning, when they continued their journey to Washington. In the course of a conversation with a reporter of the Commercial Gazette Major Swaim said: "We accompanied Mrs. Garfield, Grandma Garfield, the children and private Secretary Stanley Brown to the old homestead at Mentor on Tuesday. We were met at the depot by the Rudolphs, Mrs. Garfield's relatives, and were accompanied quietly to the homestead. When we came in sight of the old familiar spot Mrs. Garfield was quite overcome for a moment, but soon recovered her composure and entered the desolate home. General Garfield's study remains just as he left it, and one of the sorrowing widow's first steps was to go in the room where she had spent many happy hours. She is gradually recovering from the effects of the blow."

Reporter—Has she made any plans as yet for the future?

Major Swaim—Mrs. Garfield said it was too early to indicate where she will reside, but I think she will spend her summers at Mentor, in the old home; in winter time with her relatives in Cleveland, where she will be near her husband's remains, and part of the time in Williamstown, Mass., where she will be near her eldest boys, Harry and Jimmy, while they are in attendance at Williams College.

Reporter—When will the boys go back to college?

Major Swaim—They will leave for Williams College on Friday night or Saturday morning of this week Grandma Garfield in future will make her home with Mrs. Garfield; whither the bereaved wife goes the sorrowing mother will go. The aged grandmother is very frail, and will spend her last days with the family of her dead son.

Reporter—Major, a statement has been published in some of the papers that you intend resigning your position as Judge Advocate General.

Major Swaim—The statement is incorrect; I shall not tender my resignation.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—The train on the Pennsylvania road, which arrived in Jersey City at 10 o'clock to-night, had a special car attached to it in which were President Arthur, Postmaster General James and his wife, Secretary Lincoln and his wife, Secretary Hunt and a few friends of the President, including District Attorney Rollins, Speaker Sharpe and Mr. Jameson of the railway mail service. About one hundred persons, including Postmaster Pearson and some other officials, were at the station to see the party alight. The President, with a lady leaning on his arm, bowed to the crowd as he passed through the depot. Carriages were waiting, which the members of the party entered and were driven off on the ferryboat. President Arthur and Postmaster General James occupied one carriage alone. Speaker Sharpe also walked close behind the President, in company with Mr. Rollins, who was not provided with a carriage, so he had a few moments' conversation with him at the ferry, and bade him good night. The President was driven to his house in Lexington avenue. One of the party said that the President came here on private business, the nature of which he did not know, but that the President was sure he would return to Washington before the assembling of the Republican convention next week, in order that his visit to the city might not be construed as having any connection with that event. He said that while here President Arthur would resign the chairmanship of the Republican state committee. One of the cabinet officers said that the members were taking a needed rest, and that their visit here had no political significance. He also said they were not bothering themselves much as to whether the cabinet would be reconstructed or not. Their resignations were in the hands of the President and it was expected that in due time he would take action upon them. Some changes he thought would undoubtedly take place. Senator Jones, who has been visiting Senator Conkling in Utica, was expected in this city to-morrow. Senator Conkling is also expected here.

Mrs. C. F. It would be impossible for me to describe how much I have suffered, and I had abandoned all hope of ever being cured. I was, however, recommended to try Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, and it has done me more good than the combined skill of all the physicians I have ever tried during my entire life.' The Peoria Journal says the starring tour of Miss Henrietta Vaders has come to an untimely end in DesMoines, Iowa. She was handicapped by a bad company and a bad selection of plays, an incompetent agent and little or no advertising. The Truth of the Matter.

This morning we received a call from Mr. J. F. Curry, manager of the boarding house at No. 46 East North street, and Dr. W. J. Chenoweth, both of whom stated that one J. W. Bartlett, a Wabash bridge carpenter, had not been ill with small-pox at No. 46, as has been erroneously stated by the morning papers of to-day, and that he had not been in the house since the night of Wednesday, Sept. 22. He was slightly ill on that day, and Dr. Chenoweth called to see him. He then had no symptoms whatever of small-pox. The next morning early (Sept. 23) Bartlett left the boarding house and is now at his home in Taylorville. The Republican of that city says that on Saturday last Bartlett was thought to be down with the varioloid. Mr. Curry regrets that it has been made to appear in the morning papers here that Bartlett was at his place yesterday and sick, when as a matter of fact he has not been there for over a week. He has over 50 boarders, and the statement of which he complains, if not speedily denied, could only result in injury to his business.

The Garfield Monument.

A plan has been inaugurated by the authorities and business men of Cleveland for raising funds for erecting a monument to the memory of President Garfield. It is proposed to make popular subscriptions of $1.00 throughout the Nation, and it is proper that Decatur should take steps for raising as large an amount as possible, in order that the city may be properly represented in the national tribute. An association for receiving and caring for the funds has been organized at Cleveland and the work of raising money has already been commenced in several cities in this and other states. Those wishing to contribute toward this fund may do so by calling at the Decatur National Bank.

The Rev. E. M. Brown Surprise.

Eds. Republican: One of those enjoyable affairs that all your readers know something about took place at the residence of Jacob Kohr, living two and a half miles northwest of Oreana, on Thursday afternoon, Sept. 29th. The occasion was the sixty-first anniversary of the birth of Rev. E. M. Brown, father of Mrs. Kohr, and was a genuine surprise, Mr. Brown thinking the next day was his birthday. After a time spent in pleasant conversation the party, numbering 70 or 75 persons, adjourned to the dining room where a table, loaded with the good things of life, was spread by the ladies, and greatly enjoyed by all. Mr. Brown was the recipient of several presents, among others a purse of cash presented by Rev. W. C Roach with a few appropriate remarks on behalf of those present, to which Mr. Brown responded very feelingly. After singing one verse and chorus of the hymn, "We Speak of the Realms of the Blest" and a short prayer by Rev. Roach, the company departed for their homes, thinking it one of the enjoyable affairs of the season. H

The Play To-Night.

"Old Shipmates" is the title of the new play to be presented at the opera house to night by the Frank Mordaunt dramatic and comedy company, which is now in the city, and it should be seen by all Decatur's lovers of amusements. The New York Mirror said of the production:

It has been read, before a careful audience of critical managers and able actors, among whom were Messrs. J. M. Hill and Mr. Frank Mayo. We do not hesitate to pronounce this comedy drama one of the prettiest and most original in sentiment, tone and character that we have heard read. It has the great merit of being essentially new, and it introduces to the American stage a number of personages who, though distinctive and numerous in the United States, have never been imported into the drama by any play-writer, simply because none had the familiarity with and knowledge of the mental, physical and natural idiosyncracies of the people. Old Shipmates is facile princeps an American drama of strong purpose, purity of motive and treatment, and eloquently constructed. Its dialogue is somewhat singular, quaint and humorous. Its situations are telling, but not of the sensational order. The narrative is graceful, the action rapid, and the characters are boldly drawn and clearly contrasted one with the other. The central figure, "Captain" Marline Weathergage," is a whaling captain, whose good nature, genuineness and truth are allied to an unconsciousness of manner and light-heartedness that are calculated to make him seem like an old acquaintance at the start. "Commodore Abigail Coffin," the relict of his old shipmate, "Captain Coffin," is a woman whose counterpart can be found in any New England seaport town from Patchogue to Marblehead. She plays no insignificant part in the development of the plot, and there are qualities in her which should endear her to any who may see her. Without going into any elaborate sketch of the "Old Shipmates," we desire to say that it is divided into four acts, one exterior and two interiors, and that the incidents follow each other rapidly and forcibly. The interest of the story is sustained throughout, and the piece cannot fail to be a great success. Indeed, this, which is our view, was concurred in most heartily by the gentlemen who were present at the reading; and they did not hesitate to express themselves very emphatically in this way.

Litchfield's Bonanza.

The Litchfield Advocate says that the oil struck by the coal company there 786 feet below the surface, is the finest quality of lubricating oil and promises to yield abundantly. The discovery causes great excitement, and hundreds of acres of land have been bought and companies are arranging to sink wells. One company is to have a capital of $100,000. It is said that 8½ miles north of Litchfield the oil comes to the surface. The Advocate thinks it will prove the biggest thing Litchfield has struck yet. When will Frank Freeze and Col. White bore for oil in Decatur? The oil wells of Pennsylvania are said to be failing.

"PINK EYE."

The New Horse Disease—What It is and How it Affects the Equines.

The other day we made mention of the fact that "Stoner Boy," one of D. W. Brenneman's fine stallions, was a victim of the new horse disease, "pink eye."—He is still troubled with it, but is recovering slowly. As yet we have heard of no general spread of the disease in this locality or section of the state, but it is liable to break out at any time. "Pinkeye" is said to be spreading rapidly in Chicago. Decatur and Macon county people should carefully watch their horses and be prompt with remedies. The disease first makes its appearance with either a running at the eyes or swelling around the nose; the legs swell up, the horse feels dumpish, and a high fever sets in; the horses quit eating, drop their heads and act in a very lifeless manner. The principal point is to break the fever, and as soon as the fever is broken the animals get well. A noted veterinary surgeon of Chicago says, in his treatment of the disease, he uses aconite, belladonna and arsenicum, and also sweats the horses about the head and throat to draw out the inflammation. If they won't eat bran he gives them oats, and if they won't eat oats he gives them ears of corn. They should be encouraged to eat and should be watered often. He does not believe in giving the afflicted animals warm bran or any kind of hot food.

A Train Did It.

Mrs. John Ullrich, on yesterday afternoon, while seated in a spring wagon and driving a span of horses, narrowly escaped serious injuries while near the North Main street crossing of the Wabash railway. A train went dashing over that crossing as Mrs. Ullrich was approaching it, and the horses became badly frightened. Our informant states that the horses started to run and plunge, and turned around so sharply that the wagon was broken and Mrs. Ullrich thrown out, but fortunately without injury. The horses were speedily caught and as the train had then gone by they became manageable again.

Harwood, the superintendent, Miss West, a Macon county dependent, who will remain there two years and two months. The sheriff says the institution is delightfully situated within a stone's throw of the lake. There are now 50 young girls between the ages of 6 and 16 years in the school. Each forenoon they are given practical lessons in every branch of household work, and during the afternoons they spend a few hours in the school rooms. The accommodations are of the best, and all homeless girls who go there receive a mother's care.

A National Meeting of Local Interest.

David M. Berlin, who was a prisoner in the Andersonville pen, hands us a printed circular signed by W. W. Lowdermilk, Jacob Wheeler and Horace Chapin, inviting all ex-prisoners of war to attend the next annual meeting of the National Association of Union Prisoners of War, to be held at Springfield, Ill , on Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 19th and 20th, 1881. The state association meeting will be held at the same time and a grand reunion of the survivors will be had.—Reduced fare on all railroads. The purpose of the meeting is thus stated in the circular: "The object of this gathering is to build up a closer acquaintance, to strengthen the ties of fraternal friendship that should exist forever among those who fought and starved together; and to more thoroughly organize ourselves so as to mutually aid in effectively urging our interests before the next Congress of the United States, by which we may be able to benefit thousands of our comrades and fellow sufferers, who are now fast failing on account of the exposure and intense suffering endured at the hands of our inhuman captors, in Southern prisons. The great importance of every old soldier and ex-union prisoner of war attending this meeting can hardly be over estimated, for matters affecting the individual interests of every old prisoner of war will be brought before this meeting. You are therefore not only urgently requested to be present yourself, but to invite and bring with you every old soldier and fellow survivor whom you can persuade to join you, to the end that we may make this reunion a grand success." Macon county ex-prisoners should attend this important meeting, and they doubtless will in full force.

Ira Copes, near Pekin, had his wheat stubble fired by sparks from a locomotive of the P., D. & E. The fire ran along rapidly through the stubble to the grain cribs, where it devoured 540 bushels of wheat, 462 bushels of oats, and 66 bushels of rye.

Frank Mordaunt as Major Henry Clay Britt, a candidate for the Legislature, has evidently made the character himself. It is most likely Campbell never dreamed so strong a part would come out of it, but Mordaunt has brought out a big vein of comedy, and has shown himself an artist in that line as well as in others.—N. Y. Times.

The Iron Boom.

From the Baltimore Sun.

It is announced that the Reading Railroad and Iron company has leased out its iron furnaces at Port Carbon and Minersville, Pa., which have been idle for years, and they will be at once put in operation. A number of private concerns along the same road, idle for years, are now to be put to work. The great activity is to be attributed to the enormous demand for railroad iron, and it is said that 4,018 miles of railroad will be built in the United States this year, against 3,196 last year. One Philadelphia firm have inquiries for 1,000,000 tons of rails from projected companies. There appears to be a railroad building craze throughout the west. In the little state of West Virginia at least thirty different roads have been projected, and charters granted to the companies.

RUBBER GOODS [illegible], or $[illegible] per doz., Ladies' $[illegible] Female Pills $[illegible] per box. 6 for $[illegible]

NERVINE PILLS After forty years' practice I am satisfied nine-tenths of the troubles and trials in families has grown out of a latent sexual feeling on the part of ladies and gentlemen. Thousands, without knowing the real cause, have made life a weary waste for the want of proper means to make it bright and happy. NERVINE PILLS, compounded of roots and herbs, will make the weak and debilitated strong. That which you have lost, or never had, will come to make home happy. Life is too short to waste away in a dull, torpid home when a $1 box will please you and $5 will cure you for five dollars. Sent by mail, sealed, on receipt of price.
